gets results!™*

The Team Leader Readiness Simulation™ establishes a new benchmark for hiring, developing, and retaining top talent. This fully integrated system is the first comprehensive set of hiring and development tools designed specifically for the critical team leader role.

This state-of-the-art simulation blends the latest technology with professional expertise that can be found only from Employment Technologies.

The Team Leader Readiness Simulation includes four key components:

- Computerized Simulation™
- CareerRx™ for team leader development
- Face to Face Simulation™
- Structured Employment Interview™

Realism Gets Results

This fully integrated system gives potential and current team leaders the opportunity to experience situations team leaders face every day. As part of the simulation, participants interact with agents to coach, problem solve, motivate, and develop their agents to their full potential. Each participant's goal during the simulation is to maximize agent performance and boost agent retention. Following the simulation, you have instant access to comprehensive, easy to interpret results.

The realism of the Team Leader Readiness Simulation gives you the power to hire and develop team leaders who will increase team performance, improve agent retention, and deliver real-world results.
